Author Biography

Brian Jacques

Brian Jacques (pronounced 'jakes') was born in Liverpool, England on June 15th, 1939. At the age of ten, on his very first day at St. John's School he was given an assignment to write a story about animals. He wrote a short story about a bird who cleaned a crocodile's teeth. Brian's teacher would not believe that a ten year old could write so well. When young Brian refused to falsely say that he had copied the story, he was caned as "a liar". He had always loved to write, but it was only then that he realized he had a talent for it.

As an adult Brian also ran a weekly radio show on BBC Radio Merseyside, until October 2006, where he shared his comedy and wit, and played his favourites from the world of opera - he was a veritable expert on The Three Tenors. When he wasn't writing, Brian enjoyed walking his dog 'Teddy', a white West Highland Terrier, and completing crossword puzzles. When he found time he read the works of Mario Puzo, Damon Runyon, Richard Condon, Larry McMurtry, and P.G. Wodehouse. He was also known to cook an impressive version of his favourite dish, spaghetti and meatballs.

Sadly, Brian passed away on February 5th 2011.

BOOK 1 - Chapters 1 - 5

Before you read the chapters:

The protagonist in most novels features the main character or “good guy”. The protagonist of Redwall is a fearless mouse by the name of Matthias, who experiences many incredible adventures as the story unfolds. Think back on some of your favorite characters from past novels you have read or movies you’ve seen. What do you think makes for an especially interesting protagonist?

Good to Know

Historically, an abbey is a collection of buildings centered around a church and inhabited by monastics (or monks). An abbey was often fortified, for they typically contained items of value. The community was usually governed by an abbot and they were often self-sufficient. It was common for an abbey to contain gardens, mills, stables, and workshops. One of the most famous abbeys is Westminster Abbey in London, England. You can check out its website at <http://www.westminster-abbey.org>

Language Activities

A. Check Out a Real Abbey

Redwall Abbey seems like a wonderfully fascinating (and mysterious) place. Around the world there are many incredible abbeys which are open for the public to visit. Some of these abbeys date back hundreds of years and include secret passageways, hidden rooms, execution chambers and countless other unbelievable mysteries.

Using resources in your school library or on the Internet do a further investigation of one of these English abbeys (or one approved by your teacher): Westminster Abbey, Battle Abbey, Fountains Abbey, Whitby Abbey, Wall of Glastonbury Abbey, or Buckfast Abbey. Your investigation should uncover at least three fascinating facts about the abbey and its people, as well as an appropriate picture.

B. We meet a number of fascinating characters from the animal world in these chapters. Match each of the animal pictures on the left with its proper name:

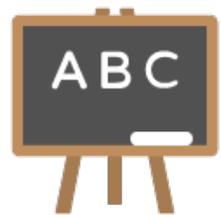

1
2
3
4
5

A	Otter
B	Rat
C	Grayling
D	Fieldmouse
E	Badger

C. Choose ten words from these chapters with two or more syllables. Indicate the syllables by drawing a line between each syllable. Example: good / bye.

D. Alliteration

The author seems to enjoy using alliteration – a literary device where the author repeats the same sound at the beginning of several words. An example from these chapters is “... fine fish for the table.”

Using your imagination, create your own examples of alliteration from the following topics. Each example must contain a minimum of three words.

The squeak of a fieldmouse
The hiss of a snake
From your imagination

Extension Activity

A storyboard is a series of pictures that tell about an important event in a story. A storyboard can tell the story of only one scene - or the entire novel.
